Philosophy

The philosophy of Gillett Intermediate School is to provide the best instructional program possible for students of this group in order that they may continue to grow and develop to the extent of their capabilities.

There must be concern for what the student is ready to learn in terms of ability, achievement, skills, needs and motivation, for education is a continuous process. Implementation of this philosophy must be in relation to the student's capacity to learn. Methods that produce and maintain the best environment for that student should be applied.

A variety of instructional strategies and methodologies will be used to meet each student's educational and learning needs. Goals and objectives will be geared to the individual needs of each pupil and to build a strong academic foundation consistent with state and district expectations.
